PREREQUISITES	Knowledge of semiotic theory
LEARNING OUTCOMES	Knowledge and understanding Knowing and being able to critically expose the main issues related to the ongoing debate in the human sciences regarding the processes of signification, with particular reference to the semiotics of cultures, of the body, of the internaturality, of food and nutrition. Ability to apply knowledge and understanding Ability to structure an organic reflection on the semiotic processes involved in the construction of cultures and in particular on the issues inherent to the notion of nutrition and cooking. Ability to formulate analysis strategies and strategic plans for the reorientation of social processes linked to the world of gastronomy. Autonomy of judgment Recognize and understand the phenomena of cultural transformation with particular reference to the semiotic components that characterize them. Communication skills Ability to illustrate with properties of language and scientific precision, also through forms of autonomous and / or group presentation, the problems relating to the semiotic aspects of cultural production and reproduction. Learning ability Ability to update with the consultation of the scientific publications of the sector. Ability to follow, using the knowledge acquired in the course, both second level masters, in-depth courses and specialized seminars in the communication sector.
ASSESSMENT METHODS	Oral exam. The main purpose of the oral exam is to verify the notions and skills acquired during the lessons. The exam will be based on three questions at least. Such questions are thought to test the learning objectives and will concern: a) the notions presented during the course, b) the ability to elaborate such notions and apply them to specific examples, c) the expressive ability of the student. The highest vote is obtained if in all these three aspects the student shows excellent abilities. It is important to underline the importance of mastering the language of the discipline, that consists in using a correct terminology but also in the ability to articulate lines of reasoning in a clear and complete way.
EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES	The course will focus on the intangible cultural heritage of cookery. In particular, after presenting the main principles of Semiotic theory and Methodology, it will address the problem of cookery, through the perspective of the cultural heritage and politics. The course will provide the main tools for analyzing food and culinary culture, elaborated by the human sciences (in particular Anthropology and Semiotics), exploring the forms of contemporary gastronomic discourse in films. Thanks to these explorations, it will be possible to recognize the terms of the contemporary culinary megatrend known as Gastromania. Fundamental feature of such megatrend is facing the problem of the political articulation of the groups affiliated on it: through the mediation of food, leadership processes and communal and convivial forms are articulated.
TEACHING METHODS	Lessons and labs.
