ASSESSMENT METHODS	Oral exam and evaluation of the exercises carried out during the course, Final exams with papers, oral exam. Evaluation criteria for the practical and oral test The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge and skills acquired during the course through the presentation of a paper drawn up during the course, on the basis of what is indicated by the teacher. The candidate will also have to answer at least one / two questions posed orally on all the theoretical parts of the program, with reference to the lessons, the recommended texts and the exercises developed during the course. The final assessment aims to assess whether the student, with reference to the thematic and problematic level relating to the annual course attended, has developed the necessary skills for the development, control and description of project strategies for the enhancement of rural villages and on the knowledge of the theoretical issues that support them. The sufficiency threshold will be reached when the student, through the papers and the related exposition, shows sufficient applicative skills in order to solve concrete cases and has knowledge and understanding of the topics covered, at least in general terms. The student must equally possess expository and argumentative skills such as to allow the transmission of his knowledge to the examiner. Below this threshold, the examination will be insufficient. The evaluation takes place out of thirty. Description of the evaluation methods Evaluation Score Excellent result 30 - 30 cum laude Excellent ability, on the part of the student, to apply knowledge and skills to solve the proposed design problems, excellent knowledge of the topics, excellent language properties, excellent analytical skills very good 26 - 29 Good ability to apply knowledge and skills to solve proposed design problems, good command of the topics, full ownership of good language 24 - 25 Medium ability to independently apply knowledge and skills to solve proposed design problems, knowledge of basis of the main arguments, fair property of satisfactory language 21 - 23 Limited ability to independently apply knowledge and skills to solve the proposed design problems, not full mastery of the main topics, sufficient property of sufficient language 18 - 20 Minimum ability to independently apply knowledge and c skills to solve the proposed design problems, poor mastery of the main topics and technical language, minimal ownership insufficient language Insufficient ability to independently apply knowledge and skills necessary to solve the proposed design problems, unacceptable knowledge of the contents of the topics covered in the teaching.
EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES	The course aims to allow the student to undertake a path of knowledge of rural architecture with particular reference to rural villages. The cultural, economic, environmental and landscape aspects of rural villages in Sicily will be studied, highlighting the relationship between architecture and countryside, between nature and artifice. Starting from the most important issues related to the rural architecture project, we intend to deepen the knowledge of the artefacts, their founding principles and their current state. The aim is to understand the enhancement strategies, the principles of redevelopment and re-functionalization for the coherent insertion of the buildings within the contemporary rural landscape.

TEACHING METHODS	Lectures, seminars, exercises, inspections and guided tours.
